School Functions Involve Everyone

The 1972-73 school year began with the first official day of school on August 28, 1972.

Makeshift classrooms were a prominent characteristic toward the beginning of the 72-73 school year as workers labored feverishly to complete the remodeling in the main building.

Pride in our new school became evident, and the following pages relate our school year's story as STUDENTS COMBINE WORK WITH PLAY.

1. Janet Creel and Claudette Cramer help with enrollment by typing individual schedules.
2. Terry Fulton makes good use of his pen.
3. Spirit and hopes soar at the Great Bend-Larned game as the Indians cross the goal line.
4. Juniors, Karen Martin and Marla Morrow enjoy their lunch in the new cafeteria.
5. Helping with enrollment are Coach Geier and Mr. Kersting, Mr. Arrington looks on.

1. "Oh no, not another picture," sigh Melvina Strobel, Janet Deets and Dee Bowman.
2. Dallas Ruehlen carefully studies a football film in preparation for the next game.
3. Caught cat napping, is Mr. Gaede, while trying to overcome an exhausting day.
4. Only a few more days left of freedom, these workers take advantage of a break.

Another hour
just passed,
we hardly noticed it.

One more day slipped by and it went too fast, again.

Another month has gone and left only memories.

One more year,
gone.
It's time to go.

Remembering, plays,
parties, and prom,
memories.

Remembering, boring classes,
crowded halls,
and smiling faces.

Another moment and we're on our way.

Starting another part of life,
remembering what used to be.

One more chance to look at those friends you've seen for many years.

One more time,
we say good-bye.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Kersting Holds New Position

During the summer, Mr. Berton Kersting moved to Larned to fill the vacated post of principal of LHS. He was faced with an unfinished building and incomplete subject scheduling. He handled the situation admirably and led us through a memorable school year. Surely, this task could not have been accomplished without the help of Mr. Turner, the school board, Mrs. Cline, and the secretaries of the District Office.

Amateurs Delve Into Sciences

Young aspiring scientists found chemistry and biology interesting in lecture and the laboratory. Chemistry stressed inorganic reactions while biology concentrated primarily on organic science. Mr. Gaede and Mr. Hadley did a thorough job of presenting the sciences.

Math students explored the relationships of angles, proofs and theorems. Mr. Webster and Mr. Fischer helped pupils grasp the puzzling problems.

1. Physics student, John Horner, carefully measures a solution for an experiment. 2. Chemistry class uses the new lab equipment to perform an experiment concerned with gas law relationships. 3. Mr. Gaede. 4. Mr. Hadley. 5. The biology class prepared cultures for growing bacteria.

1. David Crane, Glen Byerly, and Jay Giessel put their physics to work in the lab. 2. Kent Graver and Dick Shelton find atmospheric pressure by using a eudometer tube. 3. The biology class examined slides through microscopes. 4. Mr. Gaede patiently explains one of his experiments to baffled students.

ART

Artistic Talents Flourish

In a new and spacious art room, young artists tried their hand at new types of art or improved on techniques learned last year. Under the supervision of Mr. Ben Brown, they painted, created paper mache figures, molded pottery, and learned the art of macrame. Students learned to observe even the most intricate details to make their artwork more precise and representative.

2

1. Senior Charlotte Ashton works faithfully on a string and mosaic creation. 2. Mr. Ben Brown. 3. Clinton Bullard and Richard Banes appear to be involved in their art assignments as Clinton creates a paper mache figure. 4. Mr. Brown demonstrates his skill on the potter's wheel to Doug Flick.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Man Explored

Man's mind was studied by psychology students under Mr. Wilson. They delved into types of mental illness and Freudian theory.

Sociology students undertook surveys to better understand man as a part of today's society.

Seniors, under Mr. Schauner's astute guidance, learned the basics of American Government. Knowledge of current world events was also stressed.

American and World History, taught by Mr. Smith, explored our country's fight for freedom along with history of foreign countries.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Boys Learn Practical Skills

Mr. Skelton's welding classes learned the fundamentals of welding and then progressed to actual jobs in the more advanced classes.

The boys improved their adeptness at a favorite hobby in auto I and II. Learned skills were put to practical use as the boys repaired their own cars.

Students in Mr. Presley's carpentry classes learned the art of woodworking when they constructed a garage for a Larned resident.

1. Mr. Presley. 2. Sophomore, Doug Hampton, finishes a plastic paperweight on the buffer. 3. The 6th hour carpentry class lays the foundation for a garage. 4. Mr. Skelton. 5. Mr. Stark. 6. Bob Sharp carefully measures 2x4's for the construction of a garage. 7. Unconscious of outside surroundings, auto students work busily on their cars. 8. Stan Yeager improves his welding as Mr. Skelton looks on.

Special Ed.

The inquiry approach of teaching is utilized in Mr. McConnaughhays's Special Education class. He helps his students find answers instead of telling them. Shop, Math, English, Sociology, perception and social skills are studied. Some students participate in regular classes because association with other kids helps their development. Special Education's main job is to help the students find a place in society.

MUSIC

Music Department Constantly Active

Top musicians participated in the district and state band and chorus sponsored by the Kansas Music Educators Association.

In the spring, both chorus and band presented concerts with the band featuring a King and Queen elected by the public the night of the concert.

Chorus finished the year by singing at baccalaureate and commencement exercises.

4. The chorus presented an extremely effective Christmas concert in the city auditorium. 5. The band on a typical day. 6. The marching band boards the bus for an exciting band day at K-State. 7. Brenda Spreier, Diane Arnold, Jean Colglazier, and Mary Zook practice diligently for contest.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Fitness Stressed

Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Douglas kept physical education students in top shape. Pupils exercised and were acquainted with good sportsmanship. Competitive fairness was emphasized. An array of various sports were studied throughout the year to give a better understanding of physical education. First aid was studied during the winter months and students learned emergency techniques.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

A Thurber Carnival

The Junior Class play, "A Thurber Carnival," consisted of a number of playlets written by James Thurber. Each of the members of the cast had to work harder than usual because most of them portrayed five to eight different characters. This created a lot of extra work, but under the capable direction of Miss Fischer the cast performed well. As the stage crew was small, the performers had to help make and move props.

1. Waltzing and square dancing played an important part of this scene from the "Word Dance." 2. In this scene from "Gentlemen Shoppers," Thurber shows the confusion that results when department stores begin selling cocktails to attract male shoppers. 3. Cindy Gross dons her make-up for her scene in the "Little Girl and the Wolf." 4. Dean Martin has his eyebrows darkened for his scene in "File and Forget."

The cast of "A Thurber Carnival" was Charlotte Ashton, Bruce Boyd, Ann Broadie, Cindy Gross, Loren Lane, John Lewis, David Long, Dean Martin, Doug Myers, Ron Peterson, Barb Rankin, Randy Thompson, and Carol Tiday.

5. Randy Thompson gives his narration of "The Night the Bed Fell." 6. Dave Long smiles nonchalantly as his wife, Charlotte Ashton, is carted off to the "boobyhatch." 7. Much of the play's success was due to the vim and vigor of its director, Miss Beth Fischer. 8. Louise Schreiner added her knowledge to the play as the student director. 9. Susan Schartz served as the pianist, adding much to the play.

PROM

Wine and Roses

Do you remember the days of wine and roses? The nostalgic days of wine and roses were revived as prom 72. The theme was a take-off from a story about a man's troubles with wine, in the 1920's. Red and white roses, simulated garden walls and a gurgling fountain combined to create a very romantic setting. The menu was lavish and the service was excellent. Select sophomores acted as waiters and waitresses. After the banquet, couples listened or stomped to the music of Beast.

Dean Martin gave the invocation followed by the welcome by Bruce Boyd. Senior class president, David Urban voiced the response of appreciation and recognized the tremendous amount of work in sponsoring a prom.

A one-act play starring Louise Schreiner and Ron Peterson was the evening's entertainment.

The Rev. James Stapleford was guest speaker.

1. Members of Beast throb out original melodies. 2. Ronda Henry is served by sophomore waiter John Ritzman. 3. Beer bottles were cut and sanded to make attractive table candles. 4. Much work produced this romantic setting. 5. Two juniors slow-step to music also enjoyed by many others. 6. Building props for prom was the main job of the carpentry committee, Don Dreese, Steve Apley and Mr. Presley.

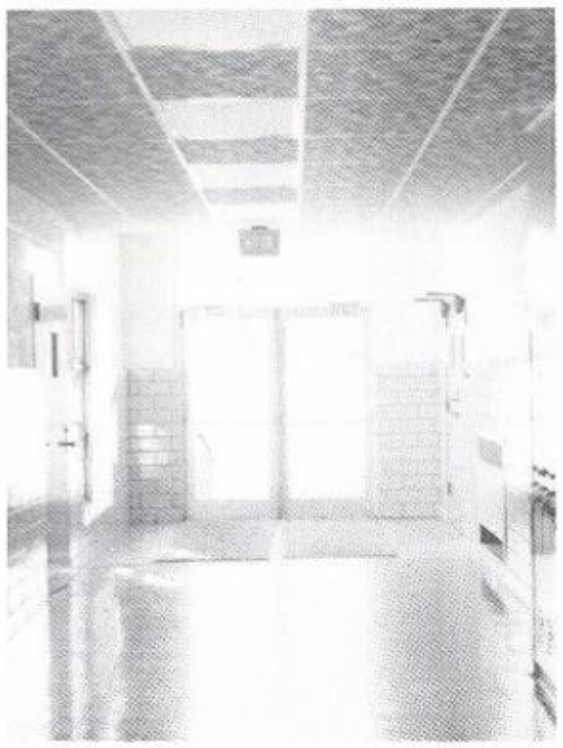
Memories Unite Class

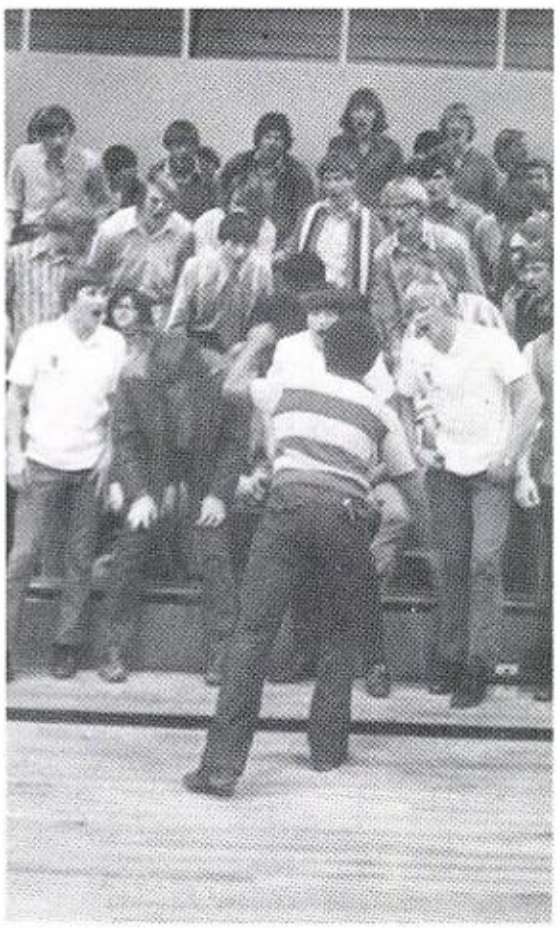
Seniors at last! It was our turn to paint over the '68 and '72 on the hill with a "73"! This school year heralded new ideas and attitudes as well as a remodeled school. Our senior football season was climaxed when we met Goodland here in the District playoffs. Wrestlers won their first match of the season from Lyons by out maneuvering them. Optimistically, we ordered senior keys, announcements, and thank you notes. Prom was memorable. Graduation, anticipated for many years, came all too soon.

Catering to tradition, we chose our school and class rings in our Junior year. Abolishment of the dress code made the 71-72 school year memorable in itself. All year we combed the streets of Larned and the halls of LHS selling T-shirts, pens, magazines, and candy. Our football team took the district championship from Pratt after two overtimes, and our band marched at the halftime show when we met Kapaun in State.

As Sophomores, we became a part of the enviable institution - high school. Mixed classes and an open lunch period were new experiences. Clubs, organizations, activities, and games beckoned our interests.

All of our experiences in high school will aid us when facing obstacles in the future.





CLASSES

From book rental time to the last finals, high schoolers combined amusement and studies. Teachers piled on the homework to aid their pupils' learning. Seniors dominated the scene after spending two years in the lower ranks. Juniors as intermediates did all the work. Sophomores formed the malleable foundation of all the activities and organizations.

SENIORS

Exhibit Leadership

Being leaders was the main job of the Seniors. Senior leaders activated the building of a student lounge and revitalized the pep club. We welcomed our new surroundings and teachers. Being on top was challenging. We accepted the challenge and tried to make the best of the year ahead. We worked hard throughout the year both athletically and academically. The Senior class took great pride in painting the hill and having the traditional bonfire, and as always we had the privilege of using the Senior parking lot. As the year came to a close, the Seniors rushed their applications to colleges and prepared for an exciting summer.

Newcomers Welcomed

The Sophomore class entered high school with an enthusiasm and entropy not uncommon. It wasn't long until they caught their bearings and were enveloped in the whirl of events. Clubs, organizations, athletics, and activities motivated enthusiasm. The sophomores enjoyed new freedoms like the open noon hour and free studyhalls.

Sophomore servers were chosen for prom to wait on tables. The class added much to athletics and pep club welcomed their enthusiasm.

ATHLETICS

Larned's athletic program as a whole was significant. Sports activities ranged from Girls' tennis in the fall to Boys' track in the spring. Athletes placed well in state and league competition. Sports provided an emotional outlet from the usual monotony of school days. Games and meets were always anticipated and the entire school shared in the teams' victories and defeats.

Royalty Reigns

Homecoming candidacy, a traditional honor at LHS, was well represented this year by five worthy candidates. FOOTBALL

Indians Outstanding

A week before school began, the football boys started practice in the hot humid weather and through football season. Their practice resulted in a winning season of 6 wins and 4 losses. Dominated by seniors but ably backed by underclassmen, the team was better than average. Mel Geier, head coach was assisted by Les Wilson and Steve Elder, first year coaches. Larned made the playoffs and several team members distinguished themselves. All League players: Mark Jantz, Tom Shepherd, Ralph Lowrey, Duane Albert, Randy Webster. Honorable Mention: Vince Caro, John Manry, Bruce Boyd, Larry Shaver, Tony Stejskal, Dale Zook. Ralph Lowrey was selected for All State.

FOOTBALL

This was Larned's last year in the WCKL league. We regret the change as we will no longer play league games with 4-A schools. Larned will continue playing the usual schools but only in non-league games. The high spots of the season were the wins over Phillipsburg and Hays, which was by only one point. Our league record was a winning one which made us eligible for the district play-offs. We were paired with Goodland who defeated us here 24-14 in an action packed game. This season was the last for the seniors and a learning experience for the juniors and sophomores.

Cheerleaders Act As Spiritmakers

LHS cheerleaders should be leaders, spirited, courteous, and bursting with ideas. They plan the pep assemblies and often act out skits. After tryouts last spring, eight girls were elected by the entire school body. All eight cheered during football season but were split to four for wrestling and four for basketball. They attended cheerleading camp last summer where they learned new cheers and skits. They injected pep into games and backed the boys constantly.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Traditionally, four sophomore girls are elected as Junior varsity cheerleaders. They cheer B-team players on to victory and participate in assemblies. Deftly, they decorated the goal posts for all the football games. They may be called cheerleading apprentices because they are in the process of learning the art of high school cheering.

GIRL'S VOLLEYBALL

Girls Host Regionals

Girl's volleyball had an impressive record this year with 5 wins and 2 losses. Practice was hard but paid off as their record indicates. The team missed out on a chance to make a return visit to the State Tournament when Goodland, the eventual winners, defeated Larned to put us in fourth place.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL

Talents Tested

The girl's basketball program was initiated under a new format this year. For the first time, girl's uniforms were purchased. The majority of the games were played on Monday and Thursday evenings instead of on Saturdays.

The team came out with a 3-5 record and many close games.

BASKETBALL

Large Crowds Much Excitement

Basketball season was characterized by the large number of hometown fans in attendance. Every game was noisy and exciting. Some were won by a point and others we lost by a considerable margin. Head Coach Marvin Webster and Ass't. Coach Les Wilson were proud of participating in the Tournament of Champions at Dodge City.

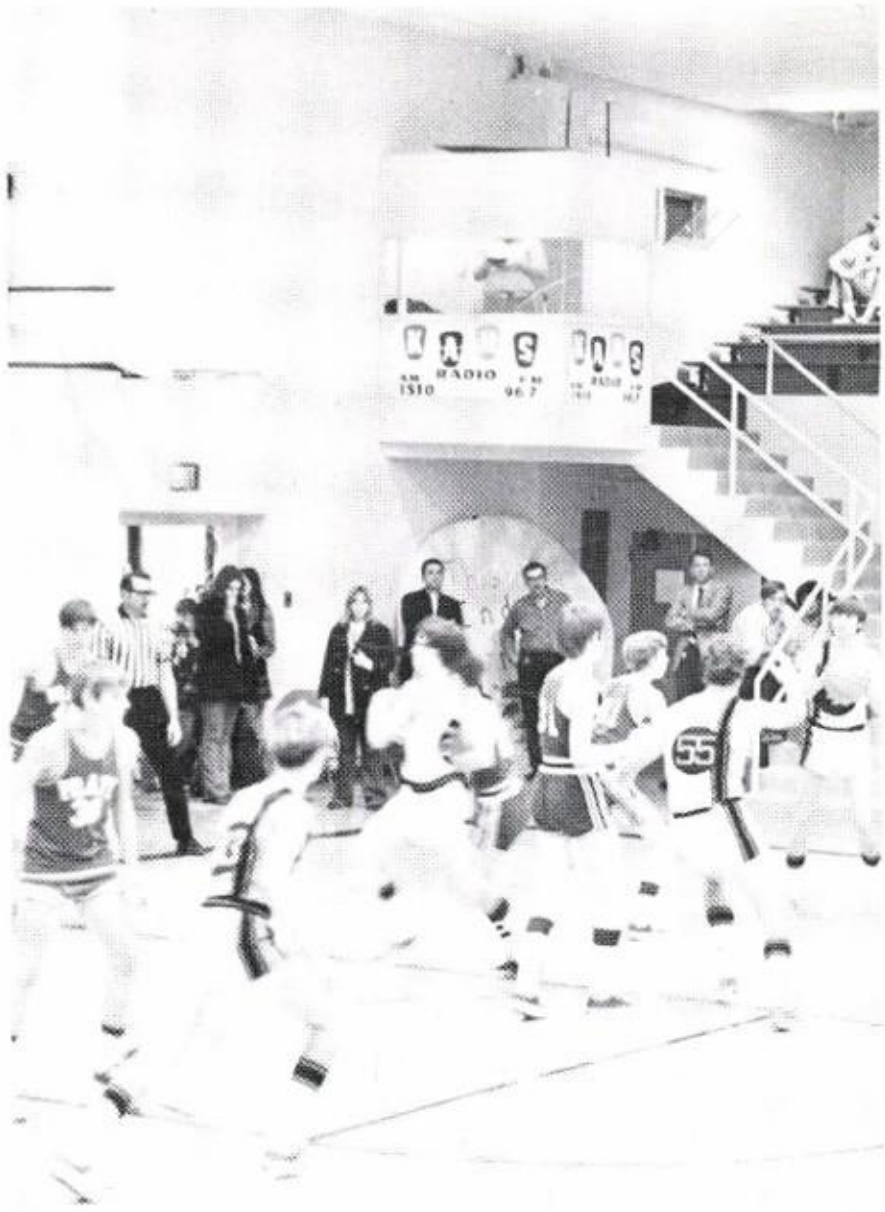
BASKETBALL

Hard-Fought Games Prized



The basketball A-team was composed of six seniors, five juniors, and one sophomore. Basketball practices were demanding with Coaches Webster and Wilson putting the boys through various drills in the quest of perfection. Throughout the season, the team showed outstanding poise and excellent ball handling in overcoming teams such as Great Bend, Garden City, and Coffeyville. Phil Loomis was consistently the high scorer and the other four starters, David Crane, Randy Webster, Ralph Lowrey, and Dale Zook were close behind. Larned played some exciting games, winning the first game against Great Bend 52-51, winning the rematch 64-60 in an exciting overtime, losing 56-60 to Hays in an overtime, and losing to Dodge 55-54. Larned ended with a winning season record with two of the losses occurring in the Dodge City Invitational Tournament in which Larned placed 7th.

The B-team devoted themselves to many hard hours of practice to improve their lesser developed skills. Their record was more modest but their gumption and desire to win equaled that of the A-team.

ALL WINTER SPORTS QUEEN

Royalty Graces Game

Mary Buckman was crowned the 1973 All Winter Sports Queen at Larned's homecoming game with Great Bend. The candidates were escorted by Larned athletes to soft background music, and Jim Froetschner, STUCO officer, presented the crown and flowers. Dara Basom carefully carried the roses and the crown was expertly carried by Jason Skelton. During the Varsity game that followed, the Queen and her court shucked their royal dignity to cheer the Larned team to victory.

The six candidates were nominated by a combination of the basketball and wrestling teams. A ballot vote of the student body determined the Queen.

1. Mary Buckman, All Winter Sports Queen, reigned over the homecoming game.

WRESTLING

Victories Heighten Season

This season the Indians entered the season with a new coach, Mr. Steve Elder, who drilled them to capture two victories. They outmatched Hoisington and Lyons. All the team contested in the districts at Pratt. Three matmen, Duane Albert, Dallas Ruehlen and John Haremza qualified for regional but were defeated. Throughout the season, the wrestlers showed improved technique and the desire to win.

The Grapplettes were formed as the wrestlers' pep club. They wore wrestling shirts and boosted the wrestlers at all matches.

TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY

Running Tests Endurance

Endurance of LHS runners was indeed tested during both spring and fall of the year. The Cross Country team, coached by Mr. Webster, launched a campaign of grueling practice and considerable time to compete with other schools.

Endurance was a key word to the Track team also. Practice was begun in the spring, and Cross Country tested the will and strength of LHS athletes. Straining every muscle, members labored to make the season a successful one.

Golfers Swing

Golf season was strenuous as always. Golfers improved their swings under the expert coaching of Mr. Armstrong. They entered in some tough league and non-league meets, eight in all. STUDENT COUNCIL

STUCO Progresses

STUCO overcame its money shortage by selling cords of firewood and collecting beer cans for recycling. With this money, they contracted a band for football homecoming and paid a large amount on the new student lounge. STUCO officers helped select the furnishings. Profits from vending machines, a pool table, and a juke box guarantee that STUCO's money problems are over. The lounge is a major gathering place and has established rapport between all the students of Larned High.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Honor Society Helps Others

In National Honor Society, honor, scholarship, service, and character are important. A student must be outstanding in these four characteristics to qualify for membership. Junior and senior provisional members were initiated in the fall, while sophomores were installed in the spring. At regular meetings, members volunteered to stamp hands at ball games which was a service project. Several of the Society tutored students who requested help.

Members of Honor Society are singled out at graduation by the yellow cords draped from their shoulders. When they receive a diploma, a yellow long-stemmed rose is presented to them. The official golden color is illustrated in the roses and cords. After graduation, members retain their membership in the National Society and carry the honor the rest of their lives.

CHIEFTAIN ROYALTY

Illustrious Individuals Recognized

Following in the footsteps of last year's Journalism Class, six couples rather than a single couple were elected to reign as Chieftain Royalty. The Intellectual girl and boy were elected for their accomplishments in their school work. The Activity Oriented girl and boy were elected for showing the most support at school functions and being active in organizations. The Athletic girl and boy were elected for being outstanding in athletics. The Friendly girl and boy were elected for having the friendliest personalities. The Individual girl and boy were elected for having the most unique personalities and ideas. The Mischievous girl and boy were elected because they are continually at the bottom of practical jokes.

Journalism Keeps Busy

Journalism began the year by selling enough ads for the paper and annual to break even. Three times in the year, after everyone helped take pictures, and the layouts were made; we met our deadlines.

Journalism gives top Senior students a chance to learn and practice newswriting. By publishing the school paper and editing the annual, their learning is put into actual practice.

1. Journalism class buckles down to meet first annual deadline. 2. John Horner and Barb Eggleston, annual editors, and Ron Peterson and Jean Colglazier, newspaper editors, directed the efforts of the class. 3. Spanish Revitalized

Mrs. Wilson introduced many new activities to Spanish students. At Wichita they participated in the Concurso, a Spanish speech contest, and ate at a Spanish restaurant. They sponsored a party for Maria Capote, sang Spanish songs for a caroling party, and made pinatas to sell for the Mental Health Association. To put their newly learned Spanish to work, Mrs. Wilson hopes to send ten students to Mexico next summer.

Band Buzzing

1972-73 was a productive year for the LHS Band and Director Elmer Snell. They presented halftime entertainment at football games. Our band marched in the Veterans' Day Parade, Christmas Parade, and participated in the Centennial Parades last summer. In December they presented a concert and in the spring, a formal concert. Band students appreciated the cooperation of area residents when they sold candles to earn money for new music. Band Day at K-State was the source of the most fun, most memories, and the least sleep.

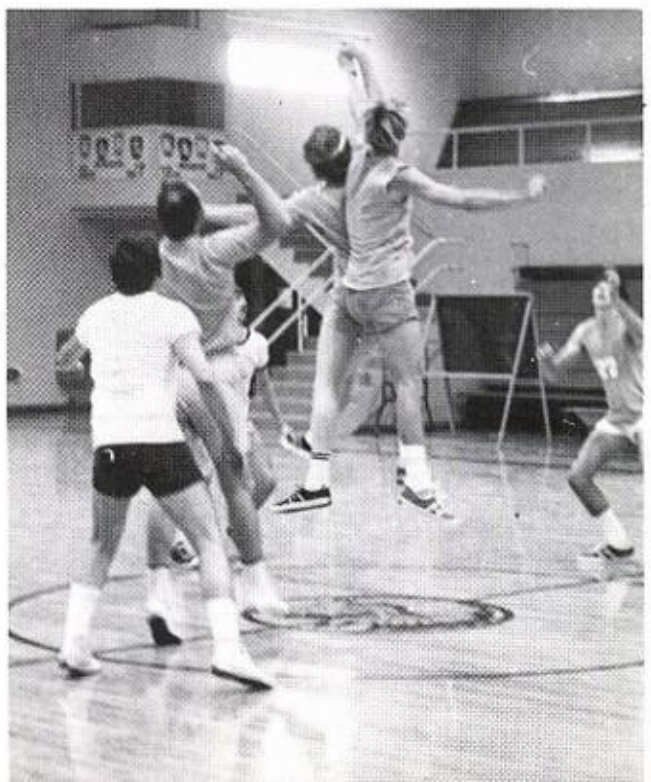
LETTERMEN'S CLUB

Lettermen's Hopes Fulfilled

The Lettermen's Club consists of those athletes who have lettered in at least one sport. Their major activity has been selling advertising for football and basketball. The money is used for a food basket for a needy family and for meal expenses on out-of-town games.

The faces of these Lettermen show that Larned had a winning season ending with a play-off game for state. Wrestlers began a new season under the apt instruction of Coach Steve Elder. Basketball season began with much practice and produced many exciting games.



Junior High

Junior High is the place where students learn to get along with one another. Sports cultivate cooperation, and classrooms improve students.

Many lasting friendships are made, and students form new ideas and goals for life.

For the first time, students are given a choice of classes.

Junior high helps ease the step between grade school and senior high.

JUNIOR HIGH

The Junior High buzzed with action all year long. Numerous basketball and football games were played with the boys both winning and losing. NINTH GRADE

Freshmen Excel

Freshmen guided the Junior High through another scholastic year. In the fall they calmed the qualms of the seventh graders by directing them to their rooms. STUCO offices were efficiently filled by freshmen. In activities such as glee clubs and band, they combined their talents with the eighth grade. Freshmen excelled in all facets of school life and provided the leadership needed.

Dear Ron,

Well, all I could find was a little corner to write in, so I am going to write my very littlest. I said I wouldn't read anything, but I did read just one. I'm sorry, but I admit it, at least. I'm going to have a hard time writing just what I want to say. I told you I had to either write 3 pages or just sign my name. Well, since I don't have 3 pages, and evidently I'm not going to just sign my name, I guess I'll have to find a happy medium (or median(?)). For awhile I've been thinking of what I should say and how I should say it, but all my organized thought to moved out my ear. I don't want to write something sloppily sentimental, cause I know you think that would be dumb and corny. Neither do I want to write something silly and frivolous (trivial) like "I enjoyed knowing ya and good luck" or something that I don't really mean. By the latter (where did I find that word? Surely it wasn't there before) I mean something like "Well, I want you to go to college and date anybody you want, have fun and be wild." You know me well enough to know that I can't bring myself to say it. I know you will date some and I know I shouldn't and don't have any reason to expect you not to. Just don't expect me to enjoy it, boy!

I know there's a lot of times when I've been a little brat and put you on the spot. Sometimes I really am terrible, I know. I hate myself afterward for it, but sometimes I can't seem to help myself. I feel like I'm hurt and need to let you know about it. Then I feel bad 'cause you look like you feel bad. (That's not saying you really do.) Just teasing. You know, letter writing (or annual signing) has an advantage and a disadvantage to it. The advantage is you can say a lot of things you never would say in person. And the disadvantage is you can't (I can't) be there to explain something with a touch that you can't (I can't) with a word. I really am long-winded aren't I (nice word for big mouth) Do you think this is getting too serious?

I could say remember all the ... etc., but I hope you can remember all the times we had together without me saying that. I will say like never forget the first time you asked me out. Oh boy, you were so perfect to me. No one was better than you. I'll never forget how bad you made this year for me. (Here I go, being corny (korny(?)) again.) The things that I want to say I can't, because you'll just wad it up and "circular file" it. I am really sorry for the little ink blobs. (And I'm running out of room! horrors!) I wonder if you're as curious about what I'm putting in your annual as I am about what you're writing in mine.

Do you remember (how could you forget?) all the things H. H. and G. T. have done? That's just part of the year. I must say sometimes I would like to make you a little jealous, so you never seem to be that somehow that just makes me feel, oh I don't know. It's nice to feel wanted in a possessed sort of way if you know what I mean. Heaven only knows I am the jealous type. I wish I weren't because it doesn't do me any good. I'm not really jealous of people you're with, just the time that you spend with them, I guess. But I realize your leisure can't be just filled with me. It's just taking me a while to realize, you know. There's lots of serious stuff I want to say but I can't. Not enough room, not enough time, I guess. Not enough courage. There's some things in you that once I found out they were characteristics of yours, I wished I could've changed. But then you really wouldn't be you would you? Not that I condone all you've done, you know. I probably won't. O.K. I'm running out of room and I could keep on for years. (next page)

At this writing, the memories of familiar faces and events were still glowing in our minds, but as we go into the world the vast technology and fast pace of our modern society seem to diffuse those memories. Prospects of starting new and different lives prompt us to utilize our abilities and continue our lives at a faster pace. During these times, it is nice to remember a slower pace in life that these pictures hold. It is our sincere wish that this yearbook will give to those who want it a chance to look back.

We would like to thank our advertisers for their support, Mrs. Lee for her patience and time, the journalism class for its hard work, the teachers for their cooperation, and the parents for their great endurance.

I've really had a lot of fun with you this year. Never forget when school first started and how pissed out we were with Dot's long hair. -- God that was sick!! I wonder what made her finally decide that maybe they were getting too long! Ha! Remember contest and all the hours of practicing it took to get that I, I sure wish you could have gotten to go to KMEA -- we would have raised some Hell. Remember Prom party and how bad off you were -- that face of yours when you were sitting in the trunk was hilarious!! well Ron, it's been a lot of fun shit'in around with you. Your personality is really outstanding -- between you and Dave I don't know who is the craziest. Good luck with Lisa and whatever you do this coming year. Maybe we'll see you this summer. -- Happier than ever! Ha Ha.

So long

Cindy Geese

Dear Ron,

Well, it really doesn't seem possible that we could be through with high school! We've had a lot of fun together and I'll miss you next year. Just remember all the fun we've had in high school like visiting Mrs. Howell, decorating, serving, and going to prom and of course all the work in journalism. You really helped a lot with the yearbook by typing, checking, proofreading and taking pictures, and I know that it would have been impossible to meet the deadlines without your and Jean's help. I'm so glad that you're a Christian too. Just trust God to lead you all the way. Good luck next year and I hope we can remain friends.

Love,

Barbee

Ron,

You've been a very dependable, wonderful editor for the newspaper this year. I've been more than pleased. I also enjoyed working with you last year. We had lots of fun, & all the things that happened in play practice both years were fun and interesting (even if I wasn't there). I wish you the very best of everything for the future. I know that you have the brains & determination to make things go well. Stop by and see me when you're home on vacation Bettyfer

Ron P, (what did you say you are doing?)
To a really great guy who has most of my respect and all around athlete.
I've had so many good times with you and Dave in our little (triad. We've done lots together and I know we'll do more, but sometimes I wish we would have done more. (Don't take that dirty!) You have a fantastic body (I want to build up your ego, as I'm usually feeding it down), a fine head (I'm interested in a man with brains) & beautiful brown eyes (that sometimes stray) and I think you're ready for (Wheaties?) (Finally?) I know you have to put up with a lot in me, and I hope you can find it in your heart to keep doing so. Besides being head over heels and blindly in love (starry-eyed) I like you a lot too, Hare Krishna! Besides being my lover, you're my best friend. (a man's best friend is his dog, ruff!) And That's a compliment, I hope you know how much you mean to me, cause by now ya should.

Today, (when I am writing this, (eyes steady, when you read it) this) this day is our anniversary. And I'll bet you didn't even know, did you? Jimo. Does it still seem an eternity?

You know, you are an extremely talented guy (man, young man?). Are you going to leave me a poem or something in your last will & Testement? You know, that won't be too messy, far away, if you plan on leaving like you were. (What a way to go!?)

I hope you really don't plan on leaving that way.

Thanks for the tenni-runners. (Ha!) Wear a Dwayne? (Ha!)
If you can't leave a pet, leave a pet peeve.
Thanks for really snoozin' this page about a Dwayne, I just Boy, I'm really snoozin', this page up, aren't I. And you know, I just said, no I never would. And you'd better believe (it) buster. Say hello to Sam and her for me. Sam and her kiss a big juicy 11 kisses do you a big juicy 11 kisses do you a big juicy 11 kisses do you

: Coy Ron, you're asking for it!
Well how's Mr Smart of Famed High? My confidante, co-editor and co-presenter of Golden Years? Remember all the yelling and screaming at me whenever I do something wrong? Sorry about that. I get mad at you sometimes but you're still my friend. I sure am glad you started goin with Sue because she's really nice! Remember when we and a whole bunch of other people went to Dodge for the game. That was exciting especially when the car would go all over the road. And that time at Sue's house when She had to go home unexpectedly. And don't start laughing whenever my stomach gurgles or I burp because everybody has that problem but not everybody's nice enough to share it! You're good at K-State and don't let Diane get to you. Barb and me are going to visit you and check up on you. Remember how Carol would do something wrong or me and you'd blow up and those "dummies" down at the Teller-Toilet. Remember when we'd get real crazy in Band and when John M. got kicked out of Band and when I tried to correct Mr. Schamel's pronunciation of that word. And all the funny things Barbie would do!? And when we went to Great Bend and all the things Mr. Lee said. And don't forget Michelle, and when I baby sat for. And when she put on those pink batards. Ron-there's lots things we did but I forgot them so until some more happen see ya. "No I never would!"

Ron — Now that you have graduated the world is wide open to you — I don't want to sound corny but you do have exceptional potential and I expect great things from you in future. I sincerely hope your interest in art will continue regardless of what you decide to devote your life to. I truly enjoyed having you as a student and will always be glad to help you in any way I can. Am looking forward to "painting + potting"

Ron,

Well, it's been a really fast year. Can't believe we're almost out. You're a really nice guy & I've grown up with you since grade-school. Remember playing baseball after school. Wow. We did have some good times didn't we, in grade school? You've put up with a lot of ruckus in Journalism this year, but all turned out well. I'm sure we'll remember our Big Senior year! Be good this summer & Good Luck in college next year

Luv Ya,
Leann

Ron
It was good having you in Government to help calm me. Get a ma at and Jim to and Mark Ric also to Future. Be good. money
Rob

Ron
You're a great guy. I'll always remember our Journalism class. Remember our Washington trip and all the fun we had on the way. Good luck at K-State. Don't forget about the Future Farmers of America. Thanks for helping me out with "it". Good Luck next year. I'll miss you.
Don

P.S. Pitbulls are made out of "pith".

Ron,

It's been fun knowing you (that sounds like a death statement.) Remember our little group that sat together in Miss Balzer's English class and we always got yelled at for talking. Well, maybe we'll all see each other again someday (if we live through this graduation stuff!)

Good Luck Always

Mary Zook "73"

Ron,

this is it. Our last week of being stoned during school. Remember those days in band when I came stoned to where I can't see. It is a trip. You need to come to my graduation party. I hope it isn't a bust. Remember Prom. God, I was stoned. I didn't know who I was. I am sure you didn't either. Oh well, Fuck it. If somebody will let us. See You Around. Don't fall at Commencement.

P.S. This annual was signed by the United Drug Addicts of America for the settlement of dope.

Ron,
It's been real fun knowing you. You always were such a nut, especially for having Lynn for a middle name like everyone else. Now you listen here. You be extra good this summer and stay out of trouble! I know you are a worry and mischievous. Also be good to Sue and have fun.
Debra Vaglet
P.S. I'll be good too

Ron, To a real nice guy that makes me look terrible on my socio-!!! Actually, you should have had above me in band, but that's the way the cookie crumbles. '73 is good this summer and good luck in college.
Marvin Dryden Wayne

Row,

To a really great guy that live grown up with! Wish I could have had some classes with you this year. Remember the hard work we did on prom last year and the wild time putting on the play last year? Remember all our good ole grade school days! Well, I want to wish you the best next year!

Lon,

You're such great guy that is really neat! You were such a blast to be around on the trip to Washington D.C. and New York. I'll never forget that you lost your suitcase for awhile. We sure had fun on the trip. I wish I had your talent and brains! Best of luck in your future endeavors!
